Dear Business partners,

Based on the long time period of global negative development in the field of basic chemistry with effect from April 1st, 2021, company Synthesia will increase prices on organic pigments and dyes produced by us up to 10 %.

The main reasons are significant increase in the costs to manufacture organic pigments and dyes connected to higher raw material prices and fundamental increase of costs associated with logistics.

We will keep working on controlling our own costs as well as improving of provided services hands by hands with building of strategic raw material safety stock to help to develop future business.

If you have any specific questions about this increase, please feel free and contact respective sales representative.

We appreciate your business and understanding.

With kind regards

Richard Dačer
